GREAT PARKS OF NEW YORK.

Totaling Nearly 6,000 Acres, All Within Easy Riding Distance from the Hotel St. Regis.

The five boroughs of Greater New York contain upward of seventy public parks—both large and small—having a total area of approximately six thousand acres. Six of these parks are notable for their size and extent, and take rank with the largest parks in the world. Their beauty is remarkable and diversified. Each possesses some attribute, some charm of location, or some specially developed feature denied to the others, and this variety adds greatly to the enjoyment of visitors. All of New York's parks are within easy carriage or automobile riding distance of the center of Manhattan—the middle borough—and particularly of the St. Regis, at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, the hotel most popular with metropolitan visitors of discrimination and refinement. It may well be repeated here that the St. Regis, built to be America's finest hotel, has more than accomplished the hopes of its projectors. Home comforts and refinements of the highest degree are assured to all, and its service is of a character that leaves nothing to be desired. The St. Regis restaurant has no superior in all the world in quality of food, skill in preparation, and perfection of service, while the charges are no higher than those of other first-class hotels. Transient guests coming to New York and stopping at the Hotel St. Regis will find accommodations of the very highest grade in every particular, and at standard rates. Single rooms are $3 and $4 a day (or $6 for two people); while for a parlor, bedroom and private bath the rates are $12 a day and up.
